[EJER] Editor Decision

From Editor EJER on 2021-07-29 22:59

Details Plain text

Connie Chairunnisa, Anen Tumanggung:

We have reached a decision regarding your submission to Eurasian Journal of Educational Research, "Influence of Character Education and Teachers' Attitudes on Deradicalization in the Context of Junior Secondary School".

Our decision is: Revisions Required

Reviewer's Summary:

Title: Need to revise the title. See the explanation below

Abstract: Rewrite the abstract by making the Purpose (objective) clear; adding details about questionnaire (tool); findings must be precise; and how to implement the result.

Introduction The 1st paragraph is definition of deradicalization, 2nd discusses character education and then rest of the section talks only about character education. Nowhere you have attempted to link character education with deradicalization. In the end of this section, you mention the objective of this research: "This study aims to assess the magnitude of the influence of character education and teacher attitudes toward deradicalization." But, in order to achieve this objective, you need to show the relationship between the two, which you haven't done.

There is also a mismatch of your purpose and objective of research: In Title Abstract, you say: "to assess the influence of character education and teachers' attitudes on the de-radicalization." In Introduction, it says: "to assess teacher and student teacher attitudes toward character education.... to assess the magnitude of the influence of character education and teacher attitudes toward deradicalization."

Reply Reply all Forward Delete Archive Mark More

You don't seem to study the influence or impact but "the importance of character education and teacher attitudes in reducing radicalism." Impact or influence requires direct or indirect action of character building on radicalization; however, you are emphasizing on character building as a prerequisite to reduce radicalization.

Please review all these places and make all statements consistent. You have also not stated any items of your questionnaire in order to determine exactly what is your objective: to study the magnitude of character building or its influence. If possible add the questionnaire as an appendix.

Please add the validity and reliability of the questionnaire items.

Literature Review: There is no Literature review in this paper, you have mentioned a few studies as a part of Introduction. And so have you included problem statement, purpose and objective of this research, its implications etc. Please review the contents of introduction and put them in proper order by putting all previous studies together, followed by problem statement, then objectives etc. .

Methodology: based on the background information, you did not create a framework of the study and straight away talk about instruments tools and hypotheses.

Hypotheses Please review the hypotheses and make them consistent

Discussion. This is Ok but language editing is required to bring consistency of stating the results/ discussions. Repetition also needs to be avoided. Also you need to explain the meaning of these findings.

Conclusion. Too short and repetition of the results/ findings. You may add the meaning of these findings, their implications, scope of future studies and suggestions/ recommendations

References: Please remove all references of the Indonesian language. It is not permitted to use references of any other language except English. it is very current topic, you have not referred to any latest study I suggest you to include a few latest studies focusing on deradicalization in education

General: the paper is very balanced in terms of topic and presentation. But the Language and syntax (sentence construction) are too simple/ naïve in the whole paper. There is no sign of research maturity even when discussing the results. There are several also grammatical errors and linguistic irregularities. Please consult a language expert to edit your paper.

Dear Editor in Chief

Eurasian Journal of Educational Research

Thank you for your email. I have received tuition support and a stipend during much of the research, but there are no funds available for open access publication of the research outputs. As I have checked that Indonesia is also categorized as lower-middle-income according to the database of World bank.

I feel passionate about releasing this work into the open domain: the research is about openly sharing research outputs and facilitating retrieval. It is especially important that researchers who may not have access to subscription journals can read about research methods and results such as those in our study, to ensure full participation in the opportunities (and potential limitations) of free, open, and data resources.
