For author and editor

The manuscript, titled "Teaching Environmental Literacy in Early Childhood Education to Improve the Character of Environmental Care," was thoroughly reviewed. This study examined This study describes environmental literacy teaching in early childhood education, which consists of teacher competence and the implementation of ecological literacy learning.

1. There are a lot of grammar mistakes and sentence formation issues throughout the paper. Please check with a native English speaker.
2. The abstract should be restructured. It must be a short summary of the research work. The abstract should consist of a background, analysis process, result, and conclusion. In this abstract, only background and objectives are given. Complete results were not properly given, and the discussion was also not satisfactory. Please rewrite it.
3. The introduction section is fine. However, if it becomes too long, shorten it. Remove common statements. Include some points about how environmental education can play an important role in environmental protection. Syllabus and teaching aids using environmental education, major environmental problems, What are the difficulties in environmental education? modified according to the current scenario The introduction should explain the intent of your study, the objective of the study, and why you chose this study. What is the research gap? provide it very clearly.
4. the methodology section to be restructured. Only four teachers, two students, and one parent were used as study respondents. Do you think this number is enough for this study? With such a small sample size, how can you draw conclusions? Details are not sufficient. Provide it in proper order with subsections.
5. On what basis did you choose the study respondents for this study? Did you have any inclusion or exclusion criteria? Explain it in detail.
6. The result and discussion sections are to lengthy reduce it. Add more references and discuss your outcomes with relevant outcomes from previous studies.
7. Figure citations are not cited in the text. Please add it.
8. Is there any limitation to the study? Explain it.
9. This study requires an acknowledgement section.
10. Please check the reference section; some references are not having DOI check the references. Please make sure that all the references are cited in the main text.
